

REVOLT THREATENS TO TIE UP SENATE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 28.—Faced with a three-cornered party revolt, Democratic leaders of the senate today renewed their efforts to force through the "regular" legislative program in time to permit President Wilson to go to Shadow Lawn for the notifications ceremonies next Saturday.

Even, parliamentary expedient was put into play by the "regular" leaders to prevent further delay on the emergency revenue bill and to block the insurgent movement for consideration of the immigration and corrupt practices bill.

The rebellion, led by Senator Underwood of Alabama, against the caucus agreement on the revenue bill, along with the opposition of other senators to the proposed munitions tax, threatens to delay a vote on that measure until tomorrow or Wednesday.

Immediately after the disposition of the revenue bill, Senator Owen of Oklahoma will force a record vote on his motion to take up the corrupt practices bill, and Senator Smith of South Carolina will make a final effort to compel action on the immigration bill at this session. The "regulars" were confident to break down both these movements.

PRESIDENT PUTS R.R. CASE UP TO LANE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 28.—While railway executives and brotherhood chieftains milled about their headquarters today pessimistically wondering what the outcome would be, President Wilson continued his efforts to prevent a general railroad strike. He deliberately deferred a planned morning conference with the railway heads in order to get additional time to perfect his plans. And, despite the depression everywhere else shown, the president, it was learned, still believes that he will find a way out.

The president practically has put the working out of a solution that will satisfy all sides up to Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior. For years as member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Lane familiarizing himself with railroad affairs. He now is bringing his experience to bear on the various phases of settlement and is aiding the president in his self-imposed task of preventing national chaos. While the president withholds details, it was learned that he now wants is that both sides agree to submit all questions in dispute to the Newlands commission, first accepting the basic principle of the eight hour day in at least an amended form. Then the president intends asking congress specifically to authorize the Newlands commission to act in the case. It was stated that, despite the fact that the 640 chairmen before leaving for their homes yesterday instructed their committee of 24, left here to handle details, not to arbitrate the eight hour day, the president is convinced that these instructions are elastic enough to permit the essential of compensation to be passed on by the Newlands commission.

It was generally accepted that the president would tell the railroad executives that he could not accept their counter proposal. Then he was expected to sound them out on his general plan. Later he will confer with the brotherhood chiefs and try to get their views on the suggestion. If a sentiment can be created in both organizations favorably to the plan then the president will suggest both sides name a committee of not more than four to confer with him and aid in drawing up an agreement of just what the Newlands commission shall pass on. While preparation for congressional action along other lines is going on, arrangements have been made for a joint session. The president will continue consultation of congressional leaders—Republicans as well as Democrats—in an effort to agree on a plan to be substituted for his latest one if the latter is finally rejected.

The brotherhood chiefs today issued a bitter rejoinder to the statement issued by Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania, in which the latter asserted "That rather than give up arbitration the executives regarded it as better to face a strike." The statement said that the Pennsylvania has refused to permit arbitration by five roads that it controls and then, in conclusion says: "What was the attitude of the Pennsylvania toward its shopmen in their efforts to organize two years since, and how many millions did the company send to defeat organization and deny arbitration? Is consistency a jewel?"

Placed on Probation.
Walter Roche and William Atkinson, two boys aged 15 years, were arrested on Sunday by Detective Goodsell of the West Shore railroad, on a charge of taking grain boards from the railroad yard. They were arraigned before Recorder Lang today. When questioned they said they took the boards to build a hut with. Both were placed on probation until school opens.

RUMANIA DECLARES WAR ON AUSTRIA

Fourteenth Nation to Enter the War
Will Put 500,000 Troops in the Field and Open the Way Into Hungary.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Aug. 28.—It was officially announced in Bucharest today that Rumania has declared war on Austria-Hungary.

The decision to enter the war on the side of the Allies was reached after a crown council held on Sunday.

Rumania is the fourteenth nation to enter the war, there being ten on the side of the belligerents and four on the side of the Central Powers.

It is estimated that Rumania will be able to put 500,000 men in the field, but in addition to this reinforcement of troops, the country's entrance into the war opens the way for the Russians to strike at Austro-German and Bulgarian troops in the Balkans.

Russia massed an enormous army upon the Rumanian frontier waiting for the Rumanian declaration of war which, she was sure, would be forthcoming. These troops can now drive into Serbia by way of Rumania, thus cutting off communication between Germany and Turkey.

Bulgaria, long fearing a hostile movement by Rumania, massed three divisions, the first of Sofia, the sixth of Vidin and the fourth of Preslava upon the Rumanian frontier. Following the Rumania peace assurance several months ago and the withdrawal of a corresponding Rumanian force many of the Bulgarian troops were withdrawn and sent into Greek Macedonia.

Rumania borders Hungary and the invasion of the Transylvanian plains across the low lying ranges of mountains on the frontier is believed to offer no serious obstacles at this time as a result of the pressure being exerted against the Austro-Bulgarian Hungarians in Galicia and the Italian theatre of war.

For two years representatives of the Entente and Teutonic Powers have labored in Rumania to secure the support of this country.

Except for the overwhelming forces arrayed against the Teutonic Allies, Bulgaria would probably welcome Rumania in the war for Bulgaria has borne bitter enmity against this country ever since the second Balkan war when Rumania joined Serbia and Greece against Bulgaria. As a result of this conflict Bulgaria had to give up territory to all three of her enemies.

Before the declaration of war announced King Ferdinand held conferences with representatives of the parties, and with the executives chambers, ministers and governmental officers to get their views on Rumania's future policy.

Gen. Averescu, former minister of war, is to command the Rumanian army, it is reported. The Bucharest Journal Dreptatea, quotes M. Filipescu as saying that Russian forces would proceed across the Polish border against Bulgaria within ten days, although article made no mention of any declaration of war.

The Bucharest newspaper Politique reports that the Rumanian government has taken over large stores of wheat for the army bought by English agents last year.

The final effort by Germany to prevent Rumania from joining the Allies was made last Wednesday when the German minister at Bucharest presented King Ferdinand with an autograph letter from the Kaiser.

CARS COLLIDED ON ASHOKAN BOULEVARD

As a result of the slippery condition of the roads following the rain storm on Sunday afternoon, a Ford automobile driven by Mrs. Albert Marks of Grand street and a big Winton automobile owned by New York people collided on the Ashokan boulevard a short distance below the village of Ashokan. The Ford car was damaged considerably, but the occupants escaped with slight injuries. One wheel on the Winton car was damaged but the occupants escaped without injury. The car was able to proceed on its way after slight repairs.

In the Ford car at the time of the accident were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Moate of Grand street, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Marks of Grand street, and Mrs. Mary Ingram of Smith avenue. The smaller car was proceeding north at a slow speed when the Winton car travelling at a fast rate rounded a sharp turn and skidding on the slippery road collided with the Ford, turning it around and tipping it over. Mrs. Ingram was the most seriously injured of the party, receiving a scalp wound about four inches long and also bruises about the body. Mr. Moate was somewhat shaken up and bruised and both were cared for by Dr. Daniel Connelly, who arrived on the scene a few minutes after the accident. Dr. Connelly had both removed to the hospital, but after being cared for, Mr. Moate was taken to his home. The other members of the party were bruised and shaken up and were later brought to their homes and cared for by Dr. Eastman.

CANADIAN HAY IS HEADING OUR WAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 28.—The embargo on the exportation of hay from Canada, which was put into effect last year was raised June 1st, according to a report of the U. S. Consul at St. Stephen, New Brunswick. He states that this has had some effect on the hay market in that district, and probably throughout the province. The Canadian department of agriculture writes from Fredericton that "large quantities of old hay are held by the shippers and farmers, who have been unable to ship to the United States" heretofore on account of the embargo.

The Democratic tariff reduction on hay will now put in some good ticks for the Canadian grower. That bill reduced the Republican duty from $4 to $2 per ton and during the first ten months of its operation hay imports (practically all from Canada) increased 50 per cent compared with a similar ten months under the Republican law. Then the war came along and the Canadian hay was needed in the war zone.

The order raising the embargo indicates that Great Britain and Canada find their troops with a supply of hay adequate for war purposes for some time to come, and Canadian growers are now at liberty to turn their attention to the American market.

Canada's total exports of her products to us during the fiscal year 1916, ended last June, amounted to $204,000,000, compared with $120,500,000 for the fiscal year 1915, under the Republican tariff law, or an increase of 70 per cent. Of course a large percentage of Canada's products consist of farm products, the bulk of which, under the Democratic law, are on the free list, but our farm products have to pay to get into the Canadian market. Under our present near-free-trade policy, Canada can devote a large part of her energies to the European war, and still nearly double her sales in the American market.

That great protectionist, James G. Blaine, once said, referring to Canada: "We will treat them as neighbors and in peace as friends, but I repeat that I don't love them well enough to invite them to sit down at our hearthstones and take part of that which belongs to our own freestone and our own children." That charity which the Democratic party shows to our foreign competitors in presenting them with the American market, should begin at home, but before it does, the Republican party will have to assume control.

The Town Board of Saugerties at its meeting, Thursday, Aug. 24, awarded the contract for building the abutments for the new Sawkill bridge, to Christy Schenck, at the price of $5,741.50, he being the low bidder. One other bid from the Fall-Kill Construction Co., Poughkeepsie, for $7,530.60, was received. Work will be commenced on the job about Sept. 15, or as soon as the steel beams arrive.

Abandoned Wife and Child.

Hugh Reilly of Waterbury, Conn., was arrested at Creek Locks on Sunday by Sergeant Murray on a charge of non-support. He was arrested against Reilly by his wife. This morning Reilly was arraigned before Recorder Lang, and the case was adjourned until Tuesday morning. All his wife asks is that Reilly contribute $2.50 a week toward the support of his child, an infant. Reilly is 21 years old. He has been working for a street railway in Waterbury and supported his family several months ago. It was learned he was visiting in Creek Locks and his arrest followed. His wife is living with her folks on Withers avenue.

MURDERER CAUGHT AFTER LONG HINT

Antonio Federici, slayer of two Orange, New Jersey, detectives a year ago and since sought by the police, was arrested in a saloon in Newburgh Saturday after a fierce fight with four police officers. Federici bit two of his captors and had to be clubbed into unconsciousness before he could be taken. The murders charged against the man were committed when he withstood a posse seeking his arrest after he had shot the escort of Miss Nora De Puy, of Tilton, N. Y., a pretty stenographer who Federici persisted in annoying with his unwelcome attentions. Federici is 55 years old and the father of several adult children. He has been employed at the fabric-old plant in Newburgh and is now held awaiting extradition.

Each of the four was driving his machine over 25 miles an hour. This morning Recorder Lang fined each $5 which they paid. Leo Kieker was arrested by Policeman Van Buren for speeding his automobile. He also paid a fine of $5.

Charles Tiffany, an out of town man, was arrested by Policeman Simpson for running his automobile past a trolley car on the wrong side of the street. He paid a fine of $5. S. E. Curtis of Hudson sails this week for Buenos Aires, Argentina, to take charge of the erection of a cement plant for the Knickerbocker Portland Cement Company, about 100 miles from the Argentine capital. STABBING AFFRAY AT BROWN'S STATION

Peter Restich, an Austrian employed by Winston & Company at Brown's Station, was stabbed by Tom Marinowich, another Austrian, while they and a third Austrian were engaged in a free for all fight at the Brown's Station camp early Sunday afternoon.

An argument followed disputes regarding some of the statements made by one of the three men, and later a scuffle developed into a fight, at the height of which Marinowich produced a long knife, almost resembling a slittet, and plunged it in Restich.

The knife entered Restich's body above the hip and penetrated into the peritoneal cavity, severing one artery. Dr. J. D. W. Duval of Shokan was summoned and hurried the patient to the Benedictine Sanitarium, where he was operated on at 9 o'clock in the evening by Drs. W. J. and John G. O'Leary and Dr. Burmond. His condition today was serious but not critical.

After the stabbing Marinowich escaped but was caught within a short time by members of the board of water supply police force, who took him before Justice of the Peace Eben H. Buswell. The latter committed him to jail for examination on a charge of assault in the second degree, and he was taken to Brown's Station this afternoon for a hearing.

Marinowich has been employed by Winston & Company at Brown's Station for the past eight years, during which he has never been arrested. He is known around the Brown's Station labor camp as "the strong man," and is said to be able to lift a negro weighing three hundred pounds on a shovel to the height of his shoulder.

SEVERE STORM IN RONDOUT VALLEY

Three Barns Struck by Lightning and Burned During the Storm Saturday Afternoon and Evening.

Saturday's storm raged vigorously in the valley of the Rondout, where two barns were struck by lightning and destroyed by fire.

At Accord on Saturday night at midnight the large barn on the farm occupied by Norman Clearwater, near the Dutch Reformed church, was struck by lightning and set on fire. The fire communicated rapidly to the large hay barn where the season's crop of hay recently had been stored, and both barns with their contents were burned to the ground. The bolt of lightning struck and killed a cow in the first barn. The fire flumed the sky and could be seen for many miles. Mr. Clearwater has occupied the farm for several years, and his insurance is nominal. The property is owned by B. Morris Tromper of this city.

The bolt disproved the old theory that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The fire which destroyed the barns occurred on Saturday night, August 16, 1884—twenty-eight years ago—lightning struck two barns which occupied the foundations on which the barns burned last Saturday night stood, and both were burned to the ground.

Farm Burned at Napanoch.

A large barn filled with hay and wood pulp owned by Simon Cushman, adjoining the Chester Young farm at Napanoch, was struck by lightning at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The fire smoldered for two hours and then broke out fiercely near the ridge pole. Mr. Cushman and his neighbors were able to get out his stock and farming implements but the season's hay and a large quantity of material which he stored for the Hoonbeek pulp mill was destroyed, entailing a total loss of about $4,000. After lightning had struck the barn, an examination was made by Mr. Cushman to discover if the place was on fire but no sparks were discovered. At 7 o'clock flames were noticed curling around the ridge pole and within a short time the entire place was in flames.

Other Fires Started.

A barn at Cragmoor was struck late Saturday afternoon and burned to the ground with its contents, and a house at Summit was struck. The house was set afire but the flames were extinguished quickly.

Storm Was Severe.

The storm was one of the worst that has been known in that section of the county for many years. It lasted from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until after midnight, during most of which time the lightning was continuous. Rain fell in torrents and resulted in considerable damage to roads.

Lightning in Kingston.

Kingston had two storms in the afternoon and evening. The first broke over Kingston about 5 o'clock in the afternoon and while it lasted was very severe. It came from the direction of Rosendale, which had experienced a succession of thunderstorms from 5 o'clock in the morning.

About 11 o'clock Saturday evening, when the second storm was at its height, lightning struck the porch on the home of James Fitzgerald on Hurley avenue. A part of the trimming was torn off by the bolt, and fire started. The rain quenched the blaze. The shock of the lightning was felt by members of the family and other residents of the neighborhood.

RETURNED WAITER UNDER QUARANTINE

Roose Says he Worked in Sullivan County Boarding House in Which Infantile Paralysis Broke Out.

Raymond Roose, a colored youth of No. 99 Gage street, has been placed under quarantine by the local health officials until his story can be investigated. According to the story Roose told Dr. Johnston on Saturday he had been employed as a waiter at the Fairview House at Mountandale, in Sullivan county. Friday three cases of infantile paralysis broke out in the house, which was closed, and Roose returned to his home in Kingston on Saturday. His return was reported to Dr. Johnston, who made an investigation. There are at least ten children in the Gage street house, and Dr. Johnston thought it best to quarantine the house until the story told by Roose could be investigated. Roose is about 20 years old.

Dr. Smith, of the state board of health is expected in Kingston today, and Dr. Johnston said he would take up the Roose case with him.

No new and no suspicious cases of infantile paralysis were reported to Dr. Johnston up to noon today.

Queer Quarantine Here.

Wappingers Falls people are aroused at the violation of the quarantine regulations in that village. An Italian child died recently from infantile paralysis and the usual arrangements were made for immediate burial. The body of the child had been prepared for burial when four little children walked into the room and kissed the face of the dead infant. The family later accompanied the body to the grave where the mother insisted on having the casket opened to permit a photograph being taken of the child. The undertaker protested but the picture was taken. A death occurred at Wappingers Friday afternoon when two years old Edward Morrow was taken with the disease and died within two hours. Another little son of the Morrow died Saturday at Vassar Hospital where he had been taken for treatment of an affection of the ear. Their little daughter is also seriously ill.

The board of education at Cairo, has decided to open the schools there despite the epidemic. At Coxsack a Chautauqua entertainment was recently held. A child in that place came down with infantile paralysis last week.

Conductor "Too Fresh."

A conductor on the Orange County Traction line from Walden has been reprimanded by the superintendent for refusing to point out to quarantine police children on his car who entered Newburgh from points beyond Orange Lake.

A Death Near Milton.

The first death from infantile paralysis in Marlborough occurred Friday when Thomas McManus, Jr., aged 9 years, died at his father's farm a mile north of Milton. So far as is known the boy had not been exposed to the disease.

Quarantine on Officers?

State officials who tried to investigate a reported case in the Gibney family near Highland Falls found the doors locked against them and they were unable to enter the house.

Death in Walden.

Stanley, the 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Andron, died in Walden Saturday morning after an illness of a day. At first the case was diagnosed as malaria.

Catskill Commented.

Dr. C. C. Duryes, State Sanitary Supervisor in Greene county from the State Department of Health, and Mrs. Katherine B. Whitmore, R. N., also of the State Health Department have been making a tour of inspection in the county and making reports of infantile paralysis. At present they still have one town to inspect but report very few cases in the county and are very enthusiastic in praising the work of the health officers.

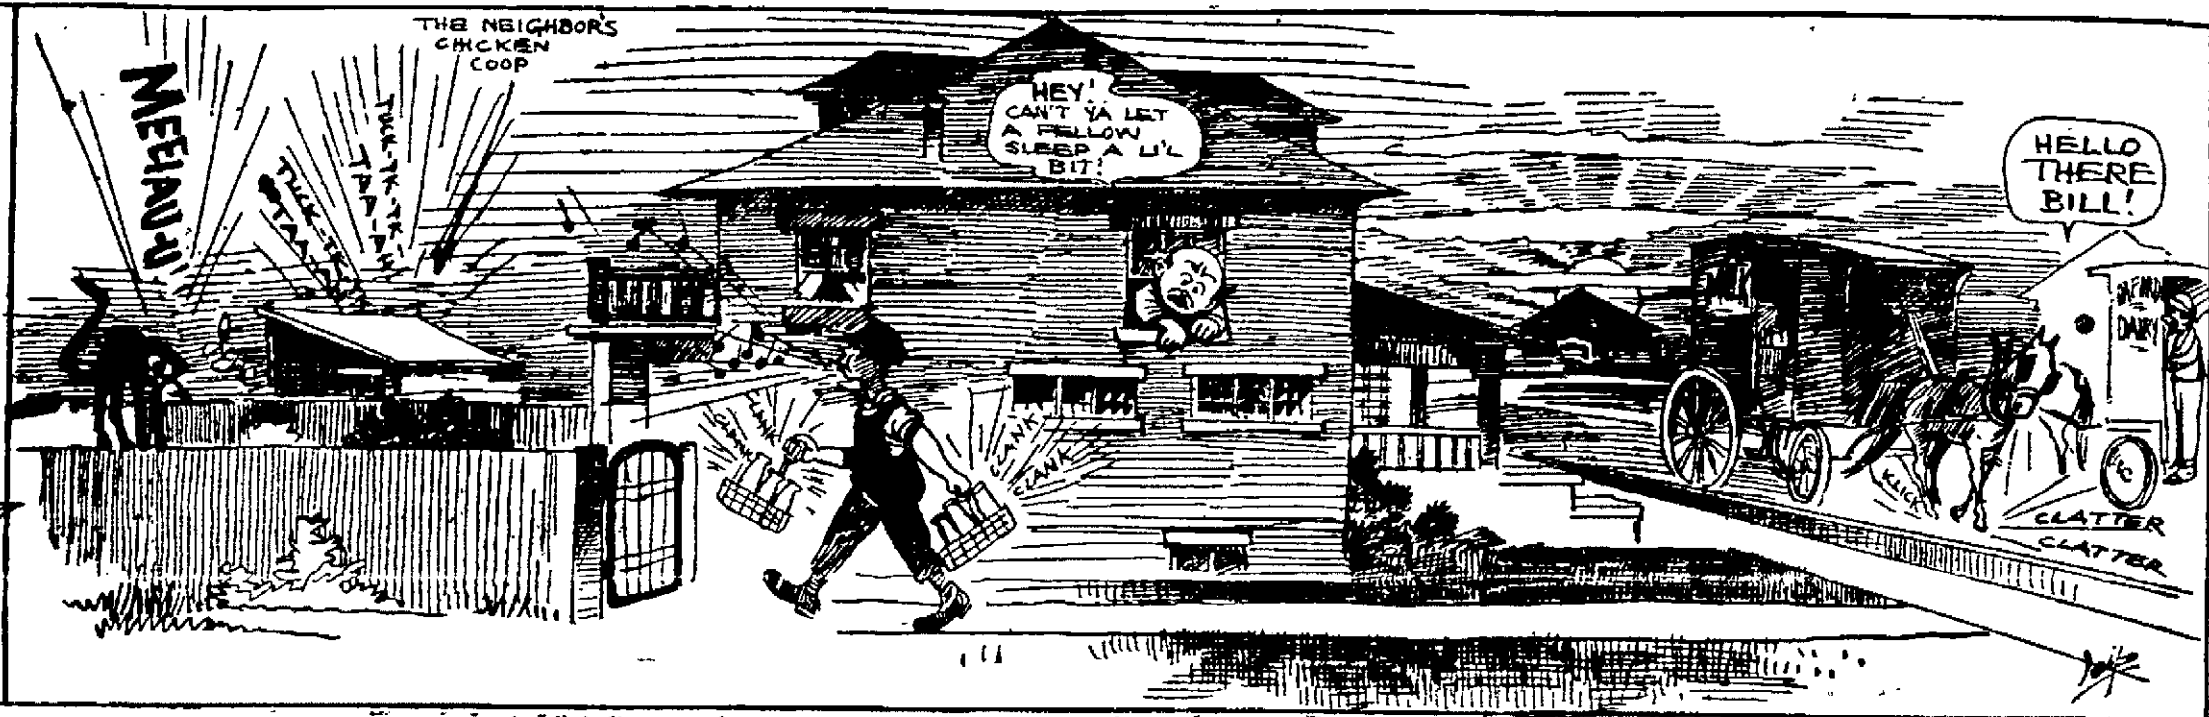

Cases Reported at Hunter.

A report from the mountain states that a ten year old boy named Stager died of infantile paralysis, at the Fordham House, in Hunter, on Thursday and the body was buried in the Jewish cemetery, adjoining Maplewood, in that village Friday night says the Catskill Mail. It is stated that the lad and his mother had been guests at the house for the past seven weeks, and on Sunday last was taken ill and Dr. Dubroff of Hunter, was summoned to attend him. Dr. Dubroff pronounced the disease stomach trouble, but the boy continued to grow worse and Health Officer Dr. R. Y. Hubbard, of Tannersville, was called and he immediately diagnosed the case as infantile paralysis and ordered a strict quarantine over the house and the fifty or more guests. The boy's father has been in the habit of coming from New York each week to visit his family and it is claimed that the father perhaps in passing through an infected district of the city, brought the germ of the disease to the mountains.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

Man think God is destroying them because he is tuning them. The violinist screws up the key till the tense cord sounds the concert pitch; but it is not to break it, but to use it tunelessly, that he stretches the string upon the musical rack.—H. W. Beecher.

DELICIOUS FRESH PEPPER.

You will probably recall that Peter Piper picked his peck of peppers, and the day was when peppers were only used in that way. The sweet red or green pepper of our garden is not only wholesome but adds another deliciously flavored vegetable to our list of good things.

A touch of chopped green pepper in a cabbage salad takes it out of the ordinary into the field of uncommon. A few strips of the red pepper added to the lettuce before putting on the French dressing makes a most delightful flavor and bit of color, which always adds value to any dish.

Peppers cooked with onions is a dish worth trying. Cut the green peppers into strips and add to the boiling onions when nearly done. Drain and serve with cream, salt and parsley.

Peppers Stuffed with Mushrooms.—Perhaps somebody may discover a more delicious dish, but at present this holds a high place. Cut peppers in halves and parboil them, then fill with creamed mushrooms, the fresh ones, sprinkle lightly with buttered crumbs and brown in the oven. Serve these to your very best friend.

Green Pepper Sandwich.—Mix finely two large sweet peppers, rejecting the pith and seeds; fold into this a cupful of mayonnaise, seasoned with chopped chives and parsley. Spread the buttered bread with the mixture and fold in a damp towel until ready to serve.

Pepper Salad.—Select four large sweet peppers; cut them in half longitudinally, remove the pith and seeds and plunge them in ice water until they are ready to use. Drain and fill a few minutes before serving time with the following: Two cucumbers, cut in small cubes; one hard-cooked egg, and one cupful of pecan meats. On top of each after filling place a generous spoonful of mayonnaise, seasoned with minced chives and parsley.

ROUNDOUT MAN ARRESTED FOR THEFT

Benjamin Meyers of Mill street, Kingston, charged with the theft of a gold watch and chain at Cokertown on Friday and suspected by Sheriff Conklin of complicity in the robberies which took place in northern Dutchess county this spring and early this summer, was arrested at Kingston Point Sunday morning, and is now in the Dutchess county jail. In the arrest of Meyers, who says he is a traveling jeweler, the authorities think they have made an important step in clearing up the mystery surrounding the disposal of the stolen goods.

At the hotel in Cokertown from which Meyers disappeared after the alleged theft of the watch occurred, it is said that the man had visited all of the residences which later were robbed, and from the business connections that he is known to have had the authorities believe that Meyers may have been either the advance man for the robbers or the "fence" through whom or at least by whose aid the stolen goods were sold.

Meyers' arrest followed a two days' search which led the authorities from Cokertown to Rhinebeck to New York, back again to Rhinebeck and finally to Kingston where the man was apprehended. Meyers was traced as far as Rhinebeck Friday night and it was thought that he took the ferry to Kingston. The Kingston authorities were unable to find him Saturday morning, largely through a misunderstanding of the identity of the man being sought, and he slipped through their fingers. Saturday night he is known to have returned to New York.

Sheriff Conklin received information Sunday morning that Meyers had again left New York, and when it was found that he was headed for Kingston the police there were notified. Meyers was arrested by Sergeant Murray and Policeman O'Neil. Later in the day he was brought to Poughkeepsie and locked up.

The county authorities are working hard on the case and hope to be able to establish by their investigations Meyers' connection with the up-river robberies. In the meantime Meyers is being held on a larceny charge for the theft committed at Cokertown.—Poughkeepsie Eagle-News.

COLVILLE MAKES HIT AT SUMMER SCHOOL

The eminent exponent of psychological truths, W. J. Colville, has certainly lived up to all expectations. He has not only filled the pavilion at every lecture, but has promulgated his truths so forcibly that a marvelous amount of benefit has been derived by his many hearers. Mr. Colville will lecture at three o'clock Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons of this week.

Miss Jessie A. Fowler, the celebrated phrenologist, who demonstrated the science of character reading so admirably on Friday evening, was compelled to stay over Sunday owing to the great number of people who wished to consult her on personal delinquencies.

This evening the Salvation Army will hold a special meeting in the pavilion, presided over by Adj. Eugene Mott, who has been so popular in our midst by his untiring efforts as a conscientious and ardent worker for the cause of Christ, and the uplifting of our fallen brethren.

Tuesday evening the lecturer will be A. H. Anderson, of the "Elvashoj" colony of Milton, who needs no introduction to Kingstonians, for his artistic temperament is so exemplified in all the wonderful craft work of his colony that they look forward with a great deal of pleasure to hear him lecture on the arts and crafts of the world. He will bring with him a rare collection of art gems, executed under his supervision at the "Elvashoj" Colony.

As the summer school opened with the movies, Dr. Sahler has arranged to close the school on Wednesday evening with an exceptional collection of moving picture reels which have been selected with special care to bring to a close the most successful summer school ever held in Kingston.

Next season the school will be held for six weeks instead of four, with a greater number of lecturers and entertainments, and a large addition built on the pavilion to hold the throngs who have visited the school and reaped such blessings and benefits by the truths which were taught by the eminent lecturers which have held forth for the last four weeks.

Fire in Ellenville.

Ellenville, Aug. 28.—Saturday morning at four o'clock, the fire alarm awakened Ellenville people, and upon investigation, it was found that the large barn in the rear of Maplewood, owned by Mrs. N. L. Feyer, was on fire. The fire companies were soon at the scene of action but proved to be of but little avail, except to keep adjoining buildings from meeting the like fate. It is not understood how the building met the fate. An automobile owned by Charles Martin in the barn was destroyed, also a lot of lumber in storage. No hay or straw was kept in this barn. The barn was in excellent state of preservation, although considered quite a landmark. The original having been built during the ownership of the late S. A. Law Post. Amount of insurance on building not known. Mr. Martin carried no insurance on the automobile.

RYAN SHIPPED TO CANADA IN BOX CAR

Tells Thrilling Tale to Police of Having Been Kidnapped by Roundout Hotel Employees and Locked in Car.

A chance remark dropped by Michael Ryan, the Niagara Falls, Canada, police's "Man of Mystery," in an unguarded moment while he was being quizzed by Constable Greenwood of the provincial police, dissipated the question as to his intentions and history Thursday evening.

Ryan was taken from a sealed box car in the Montrose yards late Wednesday night by Constable Greenwood and several railroad men in a pitiable condition. He was removed to police headquarters and subjected to a rigid cross examination by provincial police, immigration and municipal police authorities to no avail. The man seemed determined and told a weird tale of how he had been locked in the car for five days without food or drink. He said he entered the car in Indiana. He declared he was 37 years old although he appeared to be nearer the three score mark. This fact caused his inquisitors to believe him demented and they left him in the detention room pacing up and down, mumbling incoherently and groaning unceasingly.

Constable Greenwood visited the prisoner at night and chatted with him as he seemed to be somewhat more rational. Suddenly Ryan said, "Gee, I wish I could get back to Roundout!" He quickly checked himself and became sullen when Greenwood quizzed him as to what "Roundout" was. He would say nothing further. Greenwood reported the man's statement to Police Chief Welch.

The prisoner was arraigned before Magistrate Fraser on a charge of vagrancy next morning. He told another weird story. He said he had been employed as a dish-washer in a hotel at Roundout. His fellow workmen did not like him so three of them took him one night early in the week, he did not know just when, and locked him in the empty freight car. He said he was 60 years old and had been in jail at Kingston on a charge of vagrancy.

Magistrate Fraser sentenced him to 30 days in Welland county jail so that he could gather his wits. It is probable that the immigration authorities will investigate Ryan's case, and deport him when his sentence expires.

RHINEBECK WEATHER BUREAU.

Hudson Valley Can Place Blame: Nearer Home Hereafter.

Virtually all the equipment for Rhinebeck's weather bureau has arrived in Rhinebeck and is being placed in position. Because of the delicate adjustments which must be made, however, it is improbable that observations will begin within three or four weeks. The instruments are being installed by D. C. Reed of the New York Weather Bureau.

The Rhinebeck bureau is situated on the Foxhollow farm, about three miles southwest of the village. Raymond Rickett will be in charge of the station, with Thomas A. Robinson and J. R. Asber, as his assistants.

Beacon Landmark Preserved.

The Mount Julian Hotel, situated at the foot of Main street, one of Dutchess county's oldest landmarks, is about to be torn down to make way for a big brick building for the Dutchess Nat. Work.

Right Place.
"Really, Kate," said the young man, in considerable agitation, "I am very sorry I lost my head and kissed you. I didn't think what I was doing. It is a sort of temporary insanity in our family." "Well, Roy," replied the young woman, "if you ever feel any more such attacks coming on, you had better come right here where your infirmity is known, and we will take care of you."—New York Times.

My nephew aged four years, was very fond of cookies but was not allowed to ask for them when away from home. While visiting us recently he said, "Auntie, isn't dinner most ready, I'll let I smelled cookies." After dinner he hung around his uncle's chair for a while then said softly, "Uncle A—, some of these times when I am at your house won't you tell Auntie to make me a bowl of cookie?"

NORMA MACK & PHIL RADER.
WOMAN MAKES FIRST DARING GLIDE OVER NIAGARA IN AEROPLANE.

(Miss Norma Mack and Phil Rader.)
Buffalo, Aug. 28.—Miss Norma Mack, a member of the Norman E. Mack, Democratic National Committee, today made the first woman to make a safe flight over Niagara Falls. She made her trip in a hundred horsepower army aeroplane, piloted by Lieutenant Philip Rader.
To journey from the aerodrome, including a spiritual above the cat, and return, took only twenty-two minutes. The fliers encountered a stiff breeze on the way out, and it was heavier on the return.
Her father and mother were waiting for her at the aerodrome. As soon as Miss Mack stepped from the machine, she slipped off her goggles and helmet and hurried to them.
"I wasn't a bit afraid," she declared. "The aeroplane rides smoother than an automobile."
It is estimated that the average speed of Miss Mack's aeroplane on the trip was seventy-eight miles an hour.

Work of the Fireboats.
When a ship takes fire at its dock in any of the larger harbors in the country the fire department is, of course, notified. The call does not go first to the engine house nearest the fire, but to the fireboat nearest the fire. The boats are kept tied up at convenient points, always ready to depart on a moment's notice for any part of the harbor. Their pumps are operated from their own power plant, and since they pump sea water there is no limit to their range of activity.—Scientific American.

Just Like the Blind.
As an example of the ability of the juvenile scholar to evolve unexpected meanings, a correspondent of the London Spectator relates that the following question was put to a history class: "What misfortune then happened to Bishop Odo?" The reply came quite readily. "He went blind." An explanation was demanded, and the genius brought up the text book. "There, sir," triumphantly. "The book says so." The sentence indicated that "Odo was deprived of his son."

KINGSTON, N. Y., AUG. 28, 1916.

Whenever the railroads endeavor to raise passenger fares some of our cities chip in $500 each, more or less, and put up a vigorous fight in opposition. The same is true when freight rate increases are contemplated, the opposition being registered by the shippers and the public in such cases. But now when the way is being paved for both the increases mentioned through the machinations of an already well paid class of railroad employees who are seeking wage increases under the guise of a demand for the eight hour day, it is a singular fact that only a passive interest is being manifested by the great traveling and shipping interests vitally affected thereby. Yet the problem now presented at Washington directly affects the pocketbook of every man, woman and child in the country and threatens in the President's proposed solution a boost to the already high cost of living. It can not be otherwise. Application of the eight hour day to railroad operation under modern conditions will mean a decided increase in cost of haul outside of the actual salary increase to the men of the brotherhoods; to carry out the President's idea of the eight hour limitation freight trains would have to be made considerably lighter than at present in order to speed them up to make the required runs within the shorter period. Operating expenses would thus be swelled by the double burden of increased wages and decreased earnings due to curtailed hauling power resulting from speed requirements.

The report of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the year ending June 30, 1914, shows that the average yearly earnings of the 393,171 men comprising the four brotherhoods was $1,258.37, the total sum being $387,111,508. Against this, the railroads paid all other employees, exclusive of officials, office help and the brotherhoods, an average of $945,965,857 for the 1,381,413 men in this group. Now, if the eight hour day is the proper thing for the employees organized in the brotherhoods making the present demands, how long will it be before the 1,381,413 railroad men outside their ranks make a similar demand upon the railroad managers? What is sauce for the engineers and firemen is sauce for the less well paid car knocker and section hand as well. The demand of the brotherhoods entails a 20 per cent wage advance through a day shortened by one-fifth with full ten hours pay. This means a 20 per cent increase on the total earnings above stated, or approximately $77,000,000, or 75 cents a year for every one of the 100,000,000 inhabitants of the country. With this granted and the demands of the railroad men outside the brotherhood, entitled in every way to equal consideration, another wage increase of 20 per cent on their annual earnings of $945,965,857, or $189,193,171 is added. With that and the present demand added to the wage account alone, the modest total of $266,000,000 is projected on the country, or $2.66 for every man, woman and child of its population.

The President's entirely academic conception of the railway problem as revealed by his demand for the eight hour day in advance of arbitration can not by any stretch of the imagination be styled the opinion of the public. The eight hour day has come to be a government standard and has been adopted in many lines of human activity, but never has there been a nation-wide expression on the subject at the ballot box. The nearest thing to that was when the proposition of extending the eight-hour working day to all employments was submitted at a referendum in California in November, 1914, and beaten two to one. The vote was 500,851 against, with 282,693 in favor, according to the published figures. The proposition did not carry in a single county of the state, yet it was third on the ballot and was second only to state-wide prohibition in popular interest. The latter being voted down 524,781 to 355,536. Yet the President declares the eight hour day undoubtedly has the sanction of society. As a matter of fact, the shorter working day has been carried usually by default. No matter what the outcome of the present railroad crisis, the President has neither made votes nor helped matters by asserting that the demands of a special class of workers are just and sanctioned by society, regardless of the claims of a more numerous and far less well paid group of railway workers who are given no consideration whatever, the rights of the people who in the end must foot the bill for all such increases being also ignored.

We notice in the news dispatches that a lively game of baseball was played at Sing Sing yesterday by the Mutual Welfare League's team and a nine claiming to represent Wall Street. According to the Penal Code of this State it is a misdemeanor to play games on Sunday. This is doubtless a foolish restriction, but nevertheless it is the law, and if there is one place more than another where laws should be strictly enforced it is in a reformatory institution. It is impossible to believe that the public will tolerate the Osborne policies much longer.

LITTLE LAUGHS

"Wot's yer name?" "James Lowell Tennyson Browning Smythe."
"Well, I kin lick th' whole uv ye."—Life.

The Painter—"I paint things as I see them." The Buyer—"But think of me. I have to see them as you paint them."—Puck.

Saplegh—"I like a girl who can take a joke." Miss Keen—"Then you stand a splendid chance of being accepted."—Boston Transcript.

"He switched the form if not the substance of the question." "I don't get you." He asked me if I found the heat sufficient and satisfactory or would I object if it should become even more excessive?"—Detroit Free Press.

"Do you expect to make your constituents realize the value of your services?" "That won't exactly be my object in talking to them," replied Senator Sorghum. "I want to get 'em into a genial frame of mind and not so particular as to whether they are getting their money's worth."—Washington Star.

In the Original.

"I want to tell you something about that Coddler girl," said Mrs. Twobble in a half whisper.
"I'm all attention," said Mrs. Dubwaite, leaning over so as not to miss a word.

"She read Boccaccio!"
"Oh, but she reads his stories in Italian. That isn't half as bad, you know, as reading an English translation."—Exchange.

His Reason.

It is not generally known that Miss Sarah Barnhardt is a painter of rare merit. About one of her paintings she is fond of relating an amusing story, which is reprinted by the Chicago Herald. "Once," she says, "I thought seriously of abandoning the stage for the brush, but wisdom came to me when I had finished a small study and, calling up my man servant, I asked him to take the picture to the framer's and have it framed. 'Certainly, madame,' he said, and he took up the canvas in rather careless way. 'Oh, do be careful,' I said sharply. 'The paint is not quite dry yet.' 'Never mind about that, madame,' replied the man, 'my clothes are old.'"

Good Men Were Scarce.

At a dinner party somebody breached the subject of small vices. A party named Brown broke in with a dissertation on his own excellence. "Of course, I am not criticizing anybody," he said, "but personally I never drink, swear or indulge in habits of that kind."
"But, Mr. Brown," interjected one of the company, "you certainly smoke, don't you?"
"Yes; I like a cigar after a good meal," admitted Brown, "but I suppose more than the average I don't smoke more than one a month."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Why He Joined.

Early last year a patriotic grocer in a small Scottish village decided that either he or his assistant must go to the war. And as he himself was single, his mother and sister being all provided for from their shares in the shop, he thought he was the more suited. Mackay, the assistant, agreed promptly, and presently found himself in command of the business. But a few months later the master was dumfounded to meet his late assistant, attired in khaki, "somewhere in France." "Hie, mon," he said angrily, "did I not tell you to stay at home in charge of the shop?" "So I thought at the time, maister," replied Mackay, "but I sun fun' out it wisna only the shop I was in charge of, but a yer woman-folk. 'Man,' says I to maself, 'gin you've got to fecht, gang an' fecht someone ye can hit?' So I joined."—Exchange.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

There are two classes in this world, those who are born to be boss, and those who are born to be bossed.

This does not necessarily mean that all married men are in the latter class.

Speaking of bravery, it takes a brave man to tell his wife that short skirts were not intended for her style of ankles.

When a man is single, says Constant Reader, he will fall all over himself to take the young lady's arm and assist her up the hill, but after they are married the woman, if she wants assistance, is the one who has to take hold of the man's arm, or get up the best way she can.

Life is like unto climbing a high mountain, many attempt but few reach the top, writes Old Subscriber.

That mouse.—When we arose the other morning, and went down to the kitchen we discovered that we had received a visitation from some mice. Now, while we are fond of company, we draw the line at mice, and as we had no trap in the house we proceeded to our neighbor's house and borrowed one of his traps. We set the trap and we caught Papa Mouse. Still later we caught Mother Mouse, and still later three of the children. We are now up against it for the fourth child it has been found impossible to catch. We have set the trap time and time again, and the wise little cuss will nibble off the cheese each time without springing the trap. We have now borrowed a guaranteed trap from another neighbor, but this morning, we were darned if the mouse did not nibble off the bait without springing that trap. We have reset the trap, and have resigned ourselves to a watchful waiting policy in the hope of catching Villa, as we have named the little customer.

Up to noon Villa was still at large.

The trouble with most men is that they labor under the impression that opportunity travels with a brass band and will stop at their house and serenade them.

While all are not born to be famous, yet all can make the world brighter and better by always looking on the cheerful side of life and extending a helping hand to a more unfortunate neighbor.

Quite true.—Some things are best forgotten, as the woman said, after baking her first pie.

It is thought the building was set on fire.

TOPICS NEW YORK IS TALKING ABOUT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Aug. 28.—While New York has not lost its confidence that the threatened strike between the railroads and their employees will be averted, the latest reports from Washington are decidedly discouraging, the railway managers having advised the president that while they will submit all differences to arbitration they will not accept his dictum that they must adopt the 8-hour day simply because it is his command. They are skeptical of the president's promise to use his influence to procure for them increased rates to compensate for the increased cost of operation. The union men, on the other hand, are convinced that President Wilson has been playing politics from the start, they question his sincerity in advocating an 8-hour day, and they doubt that he has presented their side of the case to the railway managers with all the force and logic he could command. It is recalled that always on the eve of an election the Democrats make a great play for the labor vote, including promises which are generally forgotten as soon as the election is over. In line with this custom were the instructions which William J. Bryan gave to the Democratic convention of 1908, to go the limit in making, in the Democratic platform, the promises labor asked.

Still Jumping Taggart.

Some of Senator Tom Taggart's Democratic colleagues have been jumping on him pretty severely for his criticism of Democratic extravagance, but the figures submitted by the Indiana senator, seem to afford good ground for his animadversions. He cites, for instance, the case of the postoffice at Falmouth, Ky. The town has a population of 1,274. The appropriation is $39,900 and the cost of maintenance, figuring interest on the investment at $1,140 and including other necessary expenses, will be $3,742 a year, or nearly $3.00 apiece for every soul in the town. Mr. Taggart quotes similar figures in the cases of Roseville, Ga., and Hazard, Ky. He shows $35,000 appropriated for Mt. Olive, N. C., with a population of 1,071; $25,000 for Huntingdon, Tenn., with a population of 1,112; $40,000 for Clear Water, Fla., with a population of 1,171. "If this bill succeeds in getting through Congress," declared Senator Taggart, "the president should come to the rescue of the treasury and veto it at once." "Instead of squandering money in catching cattle ticks, killing coyotes, poisoning ground squirrels, doctoring wild ducks, treating goats suffering from Malta fever, sending out useless garden and vegetable seeds, passing pork barrel river and harbor bills, and pork barrel public building bills," say Senator Taggart, "would it not be better to get down to bed rock economy and cut these useless expenditures out and save the people from the never-ceasing visits of the tax gatherer?" Mr. Taggart's total failure to grasp the fundamentals of Democratic policy is explained by his Democratic colleagues by the fact that he has been a member of the senator only since April.

Republican 42-Centimetres.

The Republican campaign managers insist that when Col. Roosevelt lets loose his first campaign speech in Maine on August 31, the Democrats will feel as the French did the first time a 42-centimetre shell fell in their midst. They declare that if there has been observable some measure of the judicial reserve still clinging to the speeches of Mr. Hughes, there will be no lack of dynamic force about the statements of the former chief executive and they confidently predict that from the time Col. Roosevelt goes into action, Dr. Wilson and his Democratic phalanxes will be constantly on the defensive until finally they will wind up in a wild retreat. Definite information regarding Col. Roosevelt's speech, aside from the fact that it will constitute a review of the Wilson administration, is not yet forthcoming, but it is intimated that it will deal largely with "How Wilson Kept us Out of War." Senator Root is also rated a 42-centimetre gun by the Republican managers, as are former President Taft, Senator Lodge and a few others, all of whom are preparing addresses to be delivered when the campaign actually opens up.

Underwood Revolts.

Some plain truths about Wilson Democracy were told in the senate debate on the special revenue measure by no less a Democrat than Senator Underwood of Alabama, who described it as "a stretch in the nostrils of the Democratic party." In vain did Gum-shoe Bill Stone and other Wilson cuckoos strive to shut Mr. Underwood off. He was particularly hostile to the dye-stuffs tariff provision, saying: "When I have stood all my life against protection and for a tariff for revenue only, I do not intend tamely to swallow such Republican doctrine as this at the dictation of a few men here whom I regard as deserters of Democratic principles." To Senator Stone and others who chided him for disloyalty to the administration and who always speak with the voice of President Wilson, Mr. Underwood said: "I do not concede the right of any committee to arrogate to itself the right to legislate. I do not concede the right of any member of a committee to direct my action. If this be treason, make the best of it."

Kitchin Condemns Wilson.

Only a short time ago, Rep. Kitchin, the Democratic leader of the house, paid his respects to the president, and incidentally to Josephus Daniels, who as everyone knows, is merely one of the mouthpieces of Woodrow Wilson. Said Mr. Kitchin, "I believe I said it was criminal for this house to vote upon a proposition that would take hundreds of millions of dollars needlessly out of the treasury through the proposition presented by the gentleman from Pennsylvania. And yet in two short months the chairman of the committee on naval affairs, the secretary of the navy and the president and most of my fellow Democrats want me to get up now on this floor and eat my words, and say that the program of the gentleman from Pennsylvania and the Republicans, which they induced me then to denounce as criminal recklessness, is now the very perfection of virtue and patriotism." This was, it will be understood, the naval program which the Republicans urged in the house and which Mr. Kitchin, as he says, was induced by the president and Daniels to denounce as "criminal," which the senate later, under the lash of the president adopted, and the house agreed to, and which Mr. Daniels promptly proclaimed to the country as a great achievement of the administration.

Fighting McCombs.

There is a good deal of sympathy in New York for William F. McCombs. Mr. McCombs, as active worker being long before nominating convention of 1912, and as national chairman during that campaign, accomplished the election of Woodrow Wilson to the presidency. Now Mr. McCombs is Democratic candidate for the senate from New York, and the entire power of the administration is being exerted against him. As is the case with so many others who have helped Woodrow Wilson, McCombs has served his purpose and is now being treated as an outsider. McCombs has refused to howl to the dictatorship of Crown Prince McAdoo, hence his unpopularity. But his friends insist that the opposition to him stands out preeminent among the numerous instances of Dr. Wilson's ingratitude.

SECOND BASE PLAYERS

Keystone Sack Has Some Mighty Graceful Men.

Stamping Ground of More Stars Than Any Other Position on Diamond—Eddie Collins Is Praised by Manager McGraw.

"Collins, the Sox second sacker, played a brilliant game and appears to be in his midseason form."

Thus was chronicled the fact that the Tarrytown Terror is himself again, which means that he has effectively silenced those who would place strong second sackers before him, among them being his former boss, Connie Mack, who is quoted as saying that he would not trade Larry Lajoie for Collins.

McGraw Lauds Collins.

In form Collins is undoubtedly the king of second basemen. He can hit the ball consistently and timely, is a grand defensive player and a terror on the sacks. And in addition he can think. It was his ability to outguess the opposition that won more than one world's championship for the Philadelphia Athletics. For this assertion our authority is John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, who contends that Eddie Collins is the greatest baseball player in the game today. And McGraw ought to come near knowing if anybody does.

All due respect to Connie Mack and his judgment of ball players, Larry Lajoie of today is not in a class with Collins. The Lajoie of 1902, '03, '04, '05 and '06 was perhaps a greater ball player than Collins, but not the Lajoie of today. The former premier ball player of the world is not so spry as he once was. He does not tear loose those hairbreadth plays which he was wont to pull off with such consummate ease. He does not line them out in the same old way, and appears to have lost a stride or two in getting down to first. Larry is getting old. He has had his day, and not even Connie Mack can talk Collins out of the title of king of the keystone guardians. Lajoie has passed the title to him.

Place for Graceful Players.

There are few positions on the diamond that have been graced by such brilliant players as second base. Apparently it is a place for graceful players, such as Biddy McPhee, formerly of the Reds.

In the early days of baseball, when the National league was starting out and the American league and Federal league and the baseball wars things unheard of and of the distant future, the baseball fans throughout the land idealized Ross Barnes of Chicago, Reach of Philadelphia, Dave Force, Joe Quest, J. J. Burdock, Tom Force and Freddie Dunlop of the St. Louis Maroons.

After Dunlop and Link Lowe, Cupid Childs, while his only rival was Freddie Pfeffer of Chicago, a grand fielder and a hard and timely hitter. He was the means of cupping the famous White Sox infield, many claimed.

NEW WRINKLES IN BASEBALL

Inventors Galore Bob Up With Inventions to Improve Pastime—Mirror in Pitcher's Glove.

"Every season brings some new wrinkle into baseball and inventors galore bob up with contrivances which they say will improve the game, said George McBride, captain and shortstop of the Washington Nationals. One of these fellows—a colored fan in Washington—appeared at the club was at home on the last trip and tried to interest the players in a glove built especially to aid pitchers in catching base runners off second.

"The inventive genius had cut a slit in the thumb of the glove and placed in the opening a small mirror. When a runner reached second and got gay the pitcher could easily catch him napping by looking into the mirror which flashed in front of his face as he raised his glove preparatory to pitching.

"None of the boys had any time to study the contrivance, however."

UNIQUE FREAK OF BASEBALL

Walter Pipp, Yankee's Brilliant First Sacker, Takes Up Game Where Father Left Off.

Twenty-five years ago a stinging young second baseman of an independent team in Chicago went South on a training trip with the famous Chicago team under "Cap" Anson. He lacked experience and Anson advised him to play with one of the many star independent teams of that period for a year or two and then return to Chicago. The youngster had just married and decided to give up the game, although it was his ambition to be a ball player. He moved to a small town in Michigan and went into business. Just 22 years later his son joined Detroit, but was sent to the International league for further seasoning after the training trip. He is Walter Pipp, the brilliant young first baseman of the New York Americans.

Strikingly Unoriginal.

A prominent clergyman says that the only way to be interesting is to break the Ten Commandments. How is that being interesting? It's about the least original thing mankind can do.

KEEP OUT OF THE DITCH

Approach to a ditch or depression in road. American Motor League "Caution Sign."

Don't let your car run into the ditch. Poor gasoline will put it there quicker than anything else.

Some dealers and garage men are selling poor blends and worthless mixtures under misleading names, trying to make the motorist believe he is getting our well-known product. Do not let them deceive you.

The only gasoline sold or authorized for sale by this Company is called SOCONY Motor Gasoline. Ask for it by name. It gives most mileage and power and least carbon trouble.

Look for the RED, WHITE and BLUE SOCONY sign, and buy your gasoline there.

STATE FAIR WILL BAR CHILDREN

Infantile Paralysis in Neighborhood of Syracuse Makes City Unsafe for Children—New Cases Reported in This State.

By Telegram to The Freeman
Albany, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Fifteen monkeys are being experimented on here by the state department of health with the hope of obtaining definite data relative to infantile paralysis infection. The animals will be inoculated with the germ and confined with healthy simians for observation.

A resident of Plessis, Jefferson county, forty-one years old, is one of the victims of infantile paralysis. The death was reported to the state health department today. So prevalent is the plague in Onondaga and adjacent counties that children under 10 years old are to be prohibited from visiting the state fair grounds during the duration of the annual fair at Syracuse next month. The state health authorities will shortly issue this order.

Forty-seven new cases of infantile paralysis were reported to the health department today, covering Saturday and Sunday, the smallest number of week end report in some time.

There were two deaths, one at Plessis, Jefferson county, one at Cook Falls. Up to the present time
1,849 cases have been reported with 202 deaths.

The new cases today were:
Poughkeepsie, Dutchess county, 4;
Theresa, 3; Elmsburg, Jefferson county,
2; Jewood, Nassau county, 2; Cominack, Suffolk county, 2; Manlius, Onondaga county, 2; New Rochelle, Westchester county, 2.

following places:

THE POWER IN PONCKHOCKIE.

The Rev. Dr. Chase Peck Inspiration of the Indefinable.

Mr. Editor:

It was my privilege yesterday to reach both morning and evening at the Ponckhockie Union Church. This is the youngest church organization in the city and is a most vigorous one. I think I was able to discover some of its elements of power.

Several blocks before I reached the church, I found one of the officials waiting for me. He introduced me to a half score of official members waiting in the vestibule, who gave me a glad welcome. Inside, I found the room newly decorated—by the hands of their own members, they told me—an artist, surely.

The congregation was larger than I expected in the morning and at that there was a throng although none under sixteen were present. I was the more impressed as I shook hands with them as they passed out.
Young men and young women, as all as middle-aged, business men and professional men who attended the services—men leaning on their staves; one woman eighty-seven, I think they said, present at both services.

The singing was inspiring. One woman who has sung in quartets in the largest churches in the city, ably assisted by others.

But most of all was the indefinable thing; the preacher feels it and responds to it. The anxious, expectant audience, evidently hungry for the word of life. But there was more.
I dug at a preacher's heart. It gave words to his thoughts. He set himself into the sermon and when it is over, like the Master when the woman touched him in the crowd, said "I feel that virtue has gone out of me."

Possibly this church is stronger because it is composed of those who have been members of various churches, as well as many who had not previously been connected with any church all uniting to make their church a power in the city. If the present spirit continues, they will need to enlarge their edifice.

Jolly Crowd Clam bake.

The Jolly Crowd held a clam bake on Sunday at Mirror Lake, and while there Mr. Fox caught a fish which he said weighed 6 pounds and 4 ounces. Mr. Shadler, another member of the party, said that the bunnies were there but he doubted about the pounds. Those who attended the bake were Messrs. Shadler, Plautsch, Fox, Irwin, Dauner, Max
Hansen and D. Samuels. All report an enjoyable outing.

For Jerusalem Only.

The Jewish relief fund collected and forwarded by Abraham M. Safron and Meyer Kremer, a list of the contributions to which was published on Friday, was for the relief of sufferers in Jerusalem only. Local Jews have contributed large sums at other times for the aid of their coreligionists in Russia and other places.

Cherry to Constock Road.

Because of the overcrowded condition of King Highway thirty-eight prisoners were transferred from that institution to Constock on Friday.
The group included William Y.
Crest, who is serving a term for misappropriation of funds.

Original Meaning.

Significance originally meant simply to travel, and in the days of Shakespeare the farmer was said to stigmatize his sheep.

The insufficient number of road signs and warning notices on the roads about Newburgh, resulted in a lengthy discussion at a meeting of the directors of the Newburgh Automobile Club. It was the general opinion that something should be done in the near future toward reminding the situation. The Chamber of Commerce will be asked to assist.

Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford and H. S. Firestone left Orange, N.
J., on Monday for an automobile tour of the Adirondack mountains.

John Burroughs of West Park joined the party on the way and for the first time Thomas A. Edison will have a vacation without his family.

For two years Mr. Burroughs is a friend of Edison, having spent some time at the Edison winter home in Florida where songs of birds and other woodland sounds were recorded by phonograph. Henry Ford has several times visited the Burroughs home in West Park while stopping in the east.

Gov. Charles Whitman, Secretary of State Hugo, State Highway Commissioner Duffey, George W. Perkins, chairman of the Palisades Park Commission, and other persons of note, will be invited to be present at the annual banquet of the State Automobile Association, to be held in the Palisades Hotel, Newburgh, on Thursday evening, November 16th. It was decided to hold a smoker on Wednesday, November 15th, the opening day of the convention, at which a suitable entertainment will be provided. A theater party may follow.
The convention proper will be held in the court house, if arrangements can be made for its use. It is expected there will be between 150 and 200 delegates on hand.

CERTIFICATES IN RHINEBECK.
Child Travelers Must Have Health
Diplomas—Hog Yards Banned.

The Rhinebeck board of health is making a strenuous endeavor to enforce its rules on the control of infantile paralysis by appointing assistant health officers to see that the regulations are carried out. Children will not be allowed to congregate and parents are expected to keep them on their own premises as far as possible. Children will not be allowed to land in town by boat or train unless in possession of health certificates and all children arriving in town must be quarantined for two weeks, even though they have health certificates. William M. Sleight and Alexander McClintock, of Rhinebeck and Richard Thomas, of Rhinecliff, are the special officers appointed.

A resolution has also been adopted abolishing hog yards.

Enrolled on the registered at Roxbury Inn at Woodland the past week are the following Kingston names:
Mr. and Mrs. William D. Bennett,
Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bennett,
Mrs. J. G. Van Slyke, Mrs. G.
DeForest Smith, Mrs. W. N. Martin,
the Rev. and Mrs. E. Bell, Mr.
and Mrs. Ernest Kelly, Dr. and Mrs.
Hess, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace
Terpening. The Rev. Bell delivered Sunday's sermon. Camp Wake
Robin, whose season usually ends August 31, will be open at least two weeks later this year on account of the paralysis epidemic, many of the lads having from Jersey cities. The inn will not close until October 1, while many of the bungalows in the colony will be tenanted until late in the fall.

Just a Misunderstanding.
Sunday afternoon the sheriff's office was notified that a livery rig hired from a downtown livery stable had been stolen from a roadhouse on the Saugerties road. Sheriff Shullis immediately started out in search of the missing rig and found that one of the members of the party which had hired the wagon had gone for a drive further out the road while his companions were stopping at one of the hotels. There had been no attempt to steal the horse and wagon but as the person who took the ride had not stated his intention, the remaining members of the party became alarmed when they discovered the wagon missing.

POULTRY FACTS

FOR SECURING FERTILE EGGS

Strong, Vigorous Male Birds Should Be Used and Inbreeding Avoided
—Cull Sickly Hens.

The first essential is to handle the breeding flock of hens in such a manner as to secure a high percentage of fertile eggs. To accomplish this all small, weak or sickly appearing hens should be removed from the flock and only eggs from strong, vigorous, healthy hens should be used for hatching. The flock should be allowed con-

Buff Orpington Male.

siderable range if this is convenient,
though extensive range is not necessary to secure fertile eggs. If the hens must be confined in small quarters, green food or meat must be used in the ration and the hens must be compelled to scratch in clean litter for part of their feed in order to insure sufficient exercise.

Strong, vigorous cock birds must also be used, and inbreeding should be avoided. For all meat and egg breeds one cock should be allowed for ten hens and for the lighter weight egg-producing breeds one cock bird for every 15 hens.

MAKE PROFIT WITH TURKEYS

More Profitable Side Line Can Hardly Be Found for Those Who Are Favorably Situated.

For those who are favorably situated for raising turkeys, a more profitable side line can hardly be found.
Given plenty of range where the turkeys can find grasshoppers and other insects, green vegetation, the seeds of weeds and grasses, waste grain, acorns and nuts of various kinds, the cost of raising them is very small and the profits large.

Grain and stock farms are particularly well adapted to turkey raising, and it is on such farms that most of the turkeys are found.

Little has ever been done in the way of raising turkeys in confinement, and where it has been tried the results have been discouraging.

Plenty of range is essential to success in turkey raising.

CAPONIZE BIRDS FOR MARKET

—Dress in "Style."

(By M. E. DICKSON, Wisconsin Experiment Station.)

Don't sell late chickens cheap; caponize them.

Capons sell in winter at from 25 to 30 cents a pound.

Rhode Island Reds, Plymouth Rocks
and Brahmans make the best capons.
Keep fowls without food 24 hours before caponing.

Be careful to cut away from, and not toward, the backbone when making the incisions.

Always dress capons in "style"
—leave feathers around necks, hocks, on wing tips and end of the tail.

Dry-pick capons to get the best results.

Ship capons in dozen lots; they bring better prices.

Moonskinners.

The name "moon-skinners" was given to the photo distillers in the mountains of North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and West Virginia, from the fact that they do most of their work at night, on account of the danger attending it during the daytime.

pumps and silk hose complete the outfit.

"KI" BECOMES HOMESICK.

Three Days Freedom From Jail Is Enough For Him.

Three days ago "Ki" Houghtaling was discharged from jail, and this morning he walked up to police headquarters carrying a man's sized jag, and pleading to be sent back to jail. "Ki" was in no condition to walk to the county jail, which was one of the reasons why he stopped at the city hall as he counted on being sent up to his former home in the patrol wagon. At police headquarters when "Ki" came staggering in he was asked what he wanted and replied that he would like nothing better than to be sent back to jail. He was later arraigned before Recorder Lang and sentenced to sixty days. "Thank you judge" said "Ki" as he was led from the court room.

Fred Hecht, who was arrested a few days ago by Policeman Ryan on a charge of public intoxication, was arraigned today and was sentenced to ten days at the county jail.

Thomas O'Connor another drunk, who was arrested by Seth Jocelyn of the sheriff's office was also sent to jail for ten days.

Captain Edgar J. Sprattling, Company F, Fifth Regiment, Georgia National Guard, who was shot and killed at the state mobilization camp at Atlanta Thursday by Mrs. H. C. Adams, who claimed he had wronged her, was formerly a member of the Mattewan State Hospital staff at Mattewan. The woman has been held for the homicide by a corner's jury.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke).

New York, Aug. 28.—John K. Tener doesn't think that the umpiring in the National League is awful. He admits that the arbitrators might fizzle once in a while, but he points out that "to err is human." The proxy of the elder major league declares that the umpiring this year is above the average despite general yowls from players and fans all over the circuit.

"The fans frequently take issue with the umpires on decisions when they are not in any real position to judge a play," says Tener. "An umpire, within a foot or two of a play, is more competent to render just rulings than the fans sitting from 50 to 300 feet from the scene of action. But the fans, in some towns, think otherwise."

"Players have been making complaints concerning the umpires. I have investigated each and every one of them with a fair and impartial mind. On practically every occasion I have found, after listening to both sides of the story, that the umpire was right. Players, you know, are likely to get excited on the ball field and their anger will warp their better judgment. They think they are getting the worst of it at such times, yet, in their calm moments, I dare say, they would agree with the umpire perfectly."

"Some players aren't too refined in their conduct toward umpire. They think they can call an umpire any name they wish—but they can't. People in the stands can't hear all the names that are applied to umpires by the players. If they did they would have some different views; they would wonder how the umpires manage to control their tempers as well as they do."

"The umpiring in the National League, as far as I have been able to determine by several trips to the different cities, is very good, and I mean to back up my umpires to the limit."

Some race horse owners are beginning to ask themselves:

"What does it avail a gofer if his horse wins races and he loses money thereby?"

The way the "runner up" owners are continuing to singe others has created the question. The practice of beaten owners bidding up the winners still continues around the New York tracks—and woe reigns among the clique that persists in entering a class horse in a "trucker" race.

John Sanford entered Bae in a cheap selling race the other day, at a "for sale" price of $1,500. Bae won the race and about $450 of the purse for Sanford. But John lost through the victory, simply because his horse was bid up to $2,500 and retained by the owner who had to "couch up" the $2,000 difference which was split among the owners of the beaten nags.

Later in the same day, St. Isidor, another of Sanford's horses, entered to be sold for $800, copied an event. The victory netted about $450 for Sanford, but right away St. Isidor was bid up to $3,000 and retained by Sanford who had to part with $2,200 which also was divided among the beaten owners in the St. Isidor race.

Mullen Arrives.

The story of Charlie Mullen is one of a fellow who waited patiently for more than three years to show that he was a ball player, got his chance at last, and then made good with a hurrah.

Mullen, a product of a dim league in the west, landed with the Yankees during the Frank Chance regime. During that time he didn't get many opportunities to display his wares. It was the same in 1915.

When the 1916 season began, Mullen still was on the bench. Occasionally he was summoned for pinch swatting duty—and nearly always did he deliver. But along in mid-spring when the Yankee owners decided to prune the expense list, they asked for waivers on Mullen. None of the big league clubs seemed anxious to snare him. Mullen, you see, never having been accorded a real chance to show what he could do, was a sort of unknown quantity—the X of baseball. And so it looked like the minors for him.

But just then Fate plucked into the affair of Mullen and saved his major league job. A half dozen Yankees were wounded in rapid succession, making it necessary for Donovan to retain all his extra men.

Mullen in substitute roles performed in a way that surprised the natives. He hit fiercely and helded well. But when the invalids returned to the diamond Mullen was shooed back to the bench.

A while long did Mullen linger for his ultimate chance—and finally it came. Joe Gedeon, the Yank second sacker, played so poorly that Bill Donovan decided a week or so ago to bench him.

"Go in and show us what you can do," said Donovan to Mullen.

"Does that mean if I show up well I'll have the regular job?"

"It does if you show up something great," answered Bill.

Well, the box scores since then tell the rest of the Mullen story. They show that Mullen has been hitting at a scorching clip, boosting his clouting mark to something like 750. The scores show faultless fielding by this one-time dub and the Yankee fans will tell you, with bated breath, of the half-raising, sensational plays made day after day by this one-time derisive dub.

And in Gotham they are telling each other now that if Mullen, instead of Gedeon, had been in the game all year, the Yanks right now would be leading the parade by a percent clinching margin. They point out that the amazing ground-covering skill of Mullen would have saved at least four games and that his hitting would have won five more. Maybe so—and maybe not. But the real fact remains that Charlie Mullen, after suffering the slings and arrows of outrageous Fortune which kept him on the bench for three years got his chance—and he has made good.

Irresistible.

It was the war of 1890, and the amazons were ranged in battle. The lady colonel was rallying her troops, among whom panic seemed likely to spread.

"Women," she cried, waving her parasol, "will you give way to manly fears?"

For a moment they pulled themselves together, yet still hesitated to advance. Then their leader made one last effort:

"Women, listen! Are you going to show the white feather in a season when feathers are not being worn?" The appeal was successful.

"Never!" cried the amazons as they dashed forward to meet the enemy.

A Tribute to Woman.

When everything around a man staggers and wavers, when all seems dark and dim in the far distance of the unknown future, when the world seems but a picture or a fairy tale and the universe a chimera, when the whole structure of ideas vanishes in smoke and all certainties become enigmatical, what is the only permanent thing which may still be his? The faithful heart of a woman. There he may rest his head; there he will renew his strength for the battle of life, increase his faith in Providence and, if need be, find strength to die in peace with a benediction on his lips.—Henri Frederic Amiel.

Oil From Waste.

A factory has been built at Lubec, Me., for the purpose of extracting oil from herring waste and making dried fish scrap from the residue.

Justifiable Deception.

The talk had gone back and fro, and the youthful Socialist had been announcing that no man ought to get his living by cheating, and we all listened to him and agreed that it was dreadful when men and women did not tell the truth, but tried to make their living by deceiving people. Millionaires, landowners, financiers, we scarified all of them who cheat the public.

"No one should make a living by deception," said the young man impressively.

Then a quiet voice from a woman came from the corner of the sofa, "What about the conjurer?"—Exchange.

Why We Err.

Most people err not so much from want of capacity to find their object as from not knowing what object to pursue.—Sir Joshua Reynolds.

MEETING TROUBLE.

No matter what cares, anxieties or sorrows may vex or sadden you, do not prove yourself a weakling by going down before them, but show yourself noble in rising above them and molding them to life's purpose. To give up the battle because of injustice or ingratitude or wrongdoing at the hands of others is not manly. Do your duty, fight on, and trust in God.

The Lazy Man.

"A lazy man," said Uncle Eben, "is mighty liable to pretend he's puttin' his faith in Providence when he's only trustin' to luck."

The chronic cigarette-boner never says "Sorry friend—sorry"; when he goes south with your last MECCA. Why should he? He's sure got his'n.
